WELCOME

Message from the Pastor

Dear Brothers and Sisters of Our Lady of Mount Carmel,

Our medical mission trip to José Galvez, Peru has dominated the thinking and prayers of many in our Church family for several weeks. I would like to recap some of the highlights before we get back to our usual parish life.

Thirty of us made the trip—doctors, nurses, translators and support staff—and every single person was vital to the overall medical process. We saw more than 1,200 persons in three different sites around the parish of Nuestra Señora del Carmen. More than half were children, including many infants.

Each person was greeted, tested for vital signs, and then assessed by a nurse. We were blessed to have four pediatricians and four internists on our team. Each person had between five to ten minutes of a doctor's attention and some had a lot more. Please understand that every step I have just described also required a translator, of which we had several, but could have used even more.

Our delivery of medications arrived mid-week. The doctors prescribed medications and vitamins from the generous supply you donated. Each patient received a "goody bag" with gifts of toiletries and dental products.

During our visit we stayed in a Carmelite retreat house, a short bus ride away. We prayed together each day, we packed medications each night. We debriefed constantly, and we even laughed a lot.

There are many more versions to be heard from the entire team, but I wish to conclude with this: WE, the parish of Our Lady of Mount Carmel, carried out its first medical mission. Some of us actually made the trip, but all of us prayed and supported in countless ways. I speak for the great majority of the team when I say "We intend to do this again."

Praise and thanks to God and to the Church family of Our Lady of Mount Carmel.

Sincerely yours in Christ and Our Lady of Mount Carmel,
fr. Dan

TODAY'S GOSPEL MESSAGE

Sunday, October 14th

Mark 10:17-30

"As Jesus was setting out on a journey, a man ran up, knelt down before him and asked him, 'Good teacher, what must I do to inherit eternal life?'...Jesus answered him,...'Go, sell what you have, and give to the poor and you will have treasure in heaven; then come, follow me.'"

"Throughout most of the Old Testament, material wealth and worldly power were seen as blessings from God...After centuries of ups and downs, many realized that wealth and power were transitory. The ability to understand truly and judge rightly, however, was lasting... How do we gain treasure in heaven while living with all the treasures we own?"

WEEKLY RUNDOWN

“Actions speak louder than words,” Cecilia begins. “That simple phrase has been a great part of my upbringing.”

Cecilia Zayas graduated from the Academy of Our Lady of Mount Carmel in 2013 and received a Mother Caroline Scholarship to the Academy of the Holy Angels (AHA). The hours of committed service to every community she has been a part of was her mother’s example and challenge that got her involved. “We have to give back,” my mother would say. “She would instill that in my brother and me—that we are lucky for this education and have to give back.”

She started young. “I remember doing Service on Saturdays (SOS) and going to Service Days at OLMC and I remember always being excited to be a part of that day,” she says of being the young woman tagging along with her mother and aunt at the parish annual service projects. Her desire to serve grew with her.

In middle school, Cecilia’s love for theater, on stage and off, got her interested in speaking publicly. She became an Angel Ambassador at AHA, providing information about the school at different events. “I joined a group called Joining Old and Young (JOY) which had us speaking to alumni from the 1950s and ’40s, and even the 1930s. Some were suffering from Alzheimer disease, but being with them was really meaningful,” she says.

“I’ve always loved working with children.” Cecilia started working at Camp Sunshine, a camp for children and young adults with developmental challenges in Ridgewood, New Jersey. “I’ve always loved working with children and women and wanted to help, so when I heard at Mass about a place in Englewood that takes care of first time mothers, I wanted to get more involved,” she says. Her desire to get more involved meant taking on, by herself, a Baby Needs Drive every year at OLMC and AHA. “Working with first time moms, helping them register for college classes, donating diapers and baby needs was exciting,” she says. She hadn’t even graduated high school yet!

Now, studying Psychology at Johns Hopkins University, moving toward Pre-Med, she continues to serve her local community in Baltimore, while attending classes and working. “My mom is my huge inspiration,” she says. “Being part of a Catholic school, OLMC taught me what it really means to be Catholic. It is not just about thinking—it’s about getting out there!” Cecilia doesn’t forget where it all started.

“My mom, aunt, and OLMC in general, were all examples to me, and the AHA community gave me moral understanding. It’s the common ground I still share with friends. We have this unifying thing, that, when we see each other, no matter how long it’s been, we’re connected,” she says. “OLMC feels like home. We’ve been so blessed.”

A Message from George McKenna,
Director of the Office of Concern...

"We at the Office of Concern Food Pantry are gearing up for our annual Thanksgiving food collection. I am writing to you to ask if you will join us in helping poor people enjoy a great American holiday.

For 38 years, volunteers at the Office of Concern Food Pantry have been assisting needy families in Bergen County with weekly supplementary food. Our food pantry is available on a weekly basis for 900 families living below the Federal Poverty Level. These families live in severe circumstances, with limited food stamps and the need to choose between paying housing rent, medical needs, and clothing. This leaves little money left over for food.

You may wish to contribute specific holiday foods such as cranberry sauce and other fixings, which is fine, but there are also three areas of year-round foods that are especially valuable: first, canned fruits and vegetables; second, pasta (spaghetti, rigatoni, etc.) and third, breakfast cereals."

SPECIAL COLLECTION NEXT WEEKEND: The World Mission Sunday collection gathers funds to support the pastoral and evangelism programs and needs of more than 1,150 mission dioceses in Africa, Asia, the Pacific Islands and Latin America. Your contribution to this collection is appreciated.
