TODAY'S GOSPEL MESSAGE

Sunday, June 23, 2024

Mark 4:35-41

...Jesus said to his disciples: "Let us cross to the other side." Leaving the crowd, they took Jesus with them in the boat just as he was...A violent squall came up and waves were breaking over the boat...Jesus was in the stern, asleep on a cushion. They woke him and said to him, "Teacher, do you not care that we are perishing?" He woke up, rebuked the wind, and said to the sea, "Quiet! Be still!" The wind ceased and there was great calm. Then he asked them, "Why are you terrified? Do you not yet have faith?" They were filled with great awe and said to one another, "Who then is this whom even wind and sea obey?"

Reflection

"This is one of those Gospel passages where it can be dangerous to interpret it too literally. We should not become complacent in the face of storms or other natural disasters, believing that God will prevent any grave consequences. Mark told the dramatic story we hear today to inspire our faith, to show how the faith of even the first disciples wavered, and to look to Jesus as the one who had the power to still the stormy seas. May Jesus' words calm our fears and confusion."

The Nativity of Saint John the Baptist (Solemnity) – This feast is one of the earliest feasts to be celebrated on a particular day. The date of June 24 serves as a reminder that John was six months older than Jesus.

Tuesday 2 Kings 19:9b-11, 14-21, 31-35a, 36; Matthew 7:6, 12-14Wednesday 2 Kings 22:8-13; 23:1-3; Matthew 7:15-20Thursday 2 Kings 24:8-17; Matthew 7:21-29Friday 2 Kings 25:1-12; Matthew 8:1-4

Saint Irenaeus, Bishop and Martyr (Memorial) – Born in Asia Minor, he studied in Rome and went to Lyons as a missionary priest and was eventually named bishop of Lyons. He was a disciple of St. Polycarp, who was himself a disciple of St. John the Evangelist. His most important contribution was his assertion that creation is not sinful by nature, but rather distorted by sin.

Saturday Acts 12:1-11; 2 Timothy 4:6-8, 17-18; Matthew 16:13-19

Saints Peter and Paul, Apostles (Solemnity) – Peter and Paul were martyred in Rome and have been honored from the earliest days. Peter, whose name in Greek means "rock," was originally called Simon. Jesus changed his name to Peter and told him that it was on this rock that he would build his Church. Paul, the "apostle of the Gentiles," was born a Roman citizen and educated as a Pharisee. His experience of the risen Christ resulted in his conversion.

Psalm 107:1

“The Good Book”

by Deacon Lex Ferraiola

A parent speaks to a child in analogies and metaphors that the child’s mind can comprehend. These analogies and metaphors get adjusted from the most simple, when the child is an infant, to real life ‘that’s how it really is’ facts when the child is an adult.

The parent always speaks truth but that truth is presented in a language that, given the intellectual and social development of the child, he or she is capable of grasping.

I think that God speaks to humanity through his revelation in a similar way that a parent speaks to and teaches a child. God uses analogies and metaphors and reveals them through the lens of a particular historical moment in humanity’s intellectual development; and, further, through the prism of a given culture that, by the way, is also in progressive stages of intellectual development.

Thus, the stories of Creation, Adam and Eve, or Abraham, for example: Did God really make the world in six days? Did our first parents really blow it for all of us and bring death, suffering, and pain into our lives by eating an apple, or is God revealing his truth to us through an analogy and at a particular time in human development (3,000 to 5,000 years ago)? Did Abraham really almost murder his beloved son to please God or is God, again, making a point with an analogy that a culture that was surrounded by pagan sacrifice of firstborn sons to Baal can mentally grasp?

This does not discount that God revealed truth and inspired the writers whom he used as vehicles for recording that truth. But it tells us that God continues to reveal the same truth in progressive stages of history and culture, when humanity’s intellectual development reaches another level of comprehension.

Continued . . .

So, when science presents the biological and anthropological picture of plants, animals and humans evolving over billions of years, this is really not in conflict with our faith. The fact is that our loving God did in fact create us to know, love and serve him. How that fact gets across to us is dependent upon how much we are able to grasp at the time. Could Moses or Isaiah have begun to understand a biological process that unfolded over billions of years at a time when mankind believed that the sky was a canopy with holes cut into it for light and water to get through?

If archeologists find some physical proof that Moses really didn’t part the Red Sea in two, but that such a thick fog settled over the beach between the Israelites and Pharaoh’s army that Moses and his people were able to escape, that doesn’t diminish the truth that God did indeed bring the Israelite’s out of bondage.

And if we find out some day that Jesus didn’t use magic to multiply a few loaves of bread and fishes to feed a multitude of people, but that his goodness and love inspired people in the crowd to generously share the food that they were hoarding, it in no way diminishes who Jesus is and what his redemptive mission on earth was all about.

During this summer season let us reflect on the essence of our Catholic faith. That essence is timeless and limitless and unchanging. As we intellectually evolve through human history and culture and are able — through advances in science, biblical scholarship, and medicine — to experience more of God’s universe, let our faith and our hearts and our minds not be troubled. In the words of Saint Teresa of Avila, a great doctor of the church, “All things are passing. God only is changeless.”

“Let nothing disturb you.
Let nothing frighten you.
All things are passing away.
God never changes.
Patience obtains all things.
Whoever has God lacks nothing;
God alone suffices.”

– Saint Teresa of Avila

What is RCIA? Is RCIA for You?

RCIA is the Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults. The Church welcomes into the RCIA process of preparation persons who have never been baptized, those already baptized in another Christian tradition, or baptized Catholics who have not received First Eucharist or Confirmation. If you or someone you know has been thinking about becoming a member of the Catholic Church, but would first like information about the process, please call Sr. Regina at 201-871-4662.

Let us introduce you to the Academy staff and the programs we have to offer. Visit our Web site at www.academyolmc.org.

Experience the OLMC Difference!

The Academy of Our Lady of Mount Carmel is an educational community with roots in the Roman Catholic faith that teaches gospel values. Within our Carmelite tradition we are dedicated to helping students see God in themselves, in each other and in the world around them. We strive to educate the whole person—intellectually, spiritually, physically, socially and emotionally—while building a strong foundation of ethical and moral ideals.

United in Faith and Community

“Intelligence plus character. That is the true goal of education.”

Another school year in the books! I want to personally thank you for everything that you have done to help us help your children get through another successful year. I appreciate your trust in us to always have your child’s safety first in our minds. We made it through the year as once again we had everyone’s support, understanding and flexibility. This included not only the parents, but the faculty, staff, and most importantly—our students.

I want to say a BIG thank you to our teachers for their outstanding efforts in their classrooms. There were days I wondered how they were able to keep it together, but with the support and camaraderie they shared, they kept the daily routine in place and worked to get the best out of each of their students. They truly believe in our community and our mission to teach as Jesus did—serving all the children in their care.

One of our proudest achievements this year was our community coming together for daily convocation. Our student leaders took this initiative to a new height—higher than we could have imagined in just one short year. We look forward to making this even better!!

We are already looking forward to the 2024-2025 academic school year. We are looking forward to a new Peer Mentoring Program and a school weather station. I look forward to building our OLMC community—one of the true hallmarks of a Catholic school.

The partnerships that you have formed with our school are a visible sign of your strong commitment to Catholic school education and a gift to your child. Take some time to rest and renew.
